WEATHER.

Fartly Cloudy and Probably Showers Today: Monday Cloudy, Cooler.

For the District of Columbia and Maryland, partly cloudy, with probably local thundershowers Sunday Monday partly cloudy with somewhat ower temperature; light to moderate variable winds.

Warm weather continued during Saturday in the eastern and southern states, except New England, while local thundershowers brought relief from high temperature in the Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys. The weather is cool along the northern border and in western districts, readings being 20 degrees or more below normal in the northern Rocky mountain region. As the pressure has begun to increase over the great lakes it is probable that an outflow of air from this region will overspread the heated area in the middle Atlantic states Sunday night or Monday.

Monday.

There have been widely scattered showers during the last twenty-four hours in New England, the Ohio valley, the southern portion of the great lake region, the plains states and the Rocky nountain region.

The indications are that the weather

The indications are that the weather will be overcast, with probably local showers Sunday and fair Monday in New England, the middle Atlantic states, and the Ohio valley. In the region of the great lakes the weather will be fair, while in the south Atlantic and east gulf states it will be partly overcast, with probably local thundershowers Sunday and Monday.
